The Whale Research Team took on a field trip to Woods Hole, Massachusetts to see first hand the area they had been researching. They were able to visit museums, historic sites, and marine scientists such as Dr. Ambrose Jearld, Jr. of the Northeast Fisheries Science Center in Woods Hole. Though they were unable to view any Right Whales, the subject of their research, they were able to view Humpback Whales and their feeding. Water temperatures were collected for ground truthing of satellite data.
